To Have An Alaska Exhibit

The Seattle Chamber of Commerce wants an Alaska section in its Commercial Museum and have appointed Mrs. M. E. Hart as commissioner for the exhibit. The following is a letter from the Chamber of Commerce at Seattle.

To Whom It May Concern:

In-as-much as the Seattle Chamber of Commerce is inaugurating an Alaska Exhibit Section in connection with its Commercial Museum, Mrs. M. E. Hart has been authorized to act as Honorary Commissioner for the Exhibit Department.

H. B. Hardt,

Supt. of Exhibits.

Mrs. Hart is lecturer on the excursion steamer, Queen, and will be pleased to take charge of any collection of products on the next southbound trip of the Queen which will be the latter part of next week. The exhibit will be transported free of transportation charges if given to the care of Mrs. Hart.

Does Assessment Work

A. Lyman and a crew of men went to Ham Island Sunday to do assessment work of the Vermont Marble Co. who have recently bought the Island.

The workmen were taken over in the Company's new boat the Vermont. Capt. Clair Snyder has charge of the boat and was accompanied by Wm. Snyder.

Johnson - Hudson

Miss Jessie Johnson, of Kake village, and Joseph Hudson, of Pt. Gamble, Wash., were married last Thursday at 3 o'clock by Rev. Corser.

They will make their home in Petersburg.

Alaska Artist Here

Well Known Artist Will Paint In Wrangell This Season

Theo. J. Richardson, of Pacific Grove, California, the well known Alaska artist came to Wrangell on the Queen Friday.

Mr. Richardson has engaged rooms at the Wrangell Hotel for a studio and will paint through the summer months in this locality.

Mr. Richardson has been painting in Alaska during the summers of the last twenty-seven years. Recently in the Spokane disaster Mr. Richardson lost pictures representing his many years work which he will endeavor to replace.

A Busy Waterfront

Last Friday was a record day for Wrangell's waterfront. Not only did four coastwise steamers call in one day but three were in at one time.

Early in the morning the Ramona made her appearance from the south. At noon the Queen was followed in by the Princess May. These boats were still at the wharves when the Humboldt came steaming upon the scene. The Humboldt rather than put out an anchor and wait her chance at the wharf, unloaded the mail and perishable freight in small boats and then steamed on her way.

The Princess May landed about forty tons of freight. The loaded warehouse is almost filled to capacity.

The Queen had some noted passengers this trip, among whom were Ex-Governor Draper and family, of Massachusetts, Dr. Welch, President of the American Medical Association and a graduate of the Hopkins Medical Institute, of Baltimore Maryland, J. D. Barry, Editor of the San Francisco Bulletin, Attorney O'Conner, of San Francisco, Rev. J. D. Garrison, Editor of the St. Louis Christian Evangelist, and family, and Theo. J. Richardson and family of Pacific Grove, California.

Sec. Fischer

Coming North

Secretary of the Interior Walter Lowrie Fischer has concluded his plans for touring the Western States and Alaska, and at the conclusion of the cabin meeting yesterday announced he expected to leave Washington for Seattle on August 5. With Sec. Fischer will come several high subordinates.

States Briefs

Portland is to have a $600,000 packing plant built by the Chicago firm of Schwarzschild & Sulzberger.

Jack Johnson may like England but England probably will never get dippy over John Arthur.

The Vancouver, Washington, Postal Saving Bank averages $2,000 in deposits weekly.

Gives Dance

Last Saturday evening, J. G. Grant gave a dance in honor of the people going up to Telegraph Creek. A good crowd attended and a fine evening was enjoyed.

Chile-Concaine—Denney's.

Pleasure Party Visits Wrangell

A pleasure party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Newell, son and daughter, Prof. and Mrs. Terpenning, and Mr. Charlie Younger, of Seattle, came to Wrangell in their launch, "Foam" Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Newell is a Seattle real estate dealer. The party have been sailing northward for more than a week and will go as far as Skagway and if time permits visit Sitka before sailing back.

The Foam is in charge of Capt. Poole for the trip.

The Seattle Commercial Club is willing to advertise Alaska on the chance that their city will be benefited by Alaskan development. The situation of Alaska makes it necessary that Alaskan trade naturally flows through Sound ports.

The benefit and advantages of a live Commercial Club cannot be over-estimated. A well-organized Club of business men can boast their town in a great many ways. They can act informally and with freedom, where the City's Councilmen are hampered by red tape.

The need of such an organization in Wrangell is apparent. Such an organization composed of members who are not afraid to boost can do this town a great many favors.

Think this over.

BULLIED THE CLUB

A London Duelist Who Forced His Way Into Brooks'.

VETOED HIS OWN REJECTION.

After Having Been Balloted For and Unanimously Blackballed He Made Every Member Deny His Vote and Then Declared Himself Elected.

It was a witty bishop who once depicted a club as a place "where women cease from troubling and the weary are at rest." Another amusing definition was that given by George Augustus Sala. "A club," said he, "is a weapon used by savages to keep the white woman at a distance." Nowadays, however, as Ralph Nevill remarks in his book, "London Clubs," things are different. "Within the last twenty-five years or so the spirit of London club life has entirely changed. The old fashioned clubman, whose whole life was bound up with one or other of these institutions, is now practically extinct."

Perhaps the most striking story which Mr. Nevill tells regarding Brooks' club is that concerning the famous duelist, George Robert Fitzgerald, who was executed for murder in 1786. No first class London club would admit him. His name does not appear in the club list, though he must in a sort of way be regarded as having belonged to the club. He was, however, in it only once, though it was his boast that he had been unanimously chosen a member.

Owing to Fitzgerald's well known dueling propensities no first class London club would admit him. Nevertheless he got Admiral Keith Stewart, who knew that he must fight Fitzgerald or comply, to propose him for Brooks'.

Accordingly the duelist went with the admiral on the day of the election to the clubhouse and waited downstairs while the ballot was in progress.

The result, a foregone conclusion, was unfavorable to the candidate, not even one white ball being among the black, the admiral having been among the first to deposit his. Mr. Brooks eventually went to tell Fitzgerald, who was waiting in the hall, that there was one black ball and that therefore his candidature had failed.

Thrusting aside Brooks, who protested that nonmembers might not enter the clubrooms, Fitzgerald flew upstairs and entered the room. Walking up to the fireplace, he thus addressed Admiral Stewart.

"So, my dear admiral, Mr. Brooks informs me that I have been elected three times."

"You have been balloted for, Mr. Fitzgerald, but I am sorry to say you have not been chosen," said Stewart.

"Well, then," replied the duelist, "did you blackball me?"

"My good sir," answered the admiral, "how could you suppose such a thing?"

"Oh, I supposed no such thing, my dear fellow. I only want to know why it was that dropped the black ball in by accident, as it were."

Fitzgerald now went up to each individual member and put the same question to all in turn. "Did you blackball me, sir?" until he made the round of the whole club, and in each case he received a reply similar to that of the admiral.

When he had finished his investigations he thus addressed the whole body: "You see, gentlemen, that as none of you have blackballed me I must be elected. It is Mr. Brooks who has made the mistake."

After this nothing more was said by the members, who determined to ignore the presence of their dangerous visitor, who drank three bottles of champagne in enforced silence, for no one would answer him when he spoke.

When he had gone it was agreed "that half a dozen stout constables should be in waiting the next evening to bear him off to the watch house if he attempted again to intrude, but Mr. Fitzgerald, aware probably of the reception he might get, never did."

Apropos of blackballing, Mr. Nevill mentions the greatest instance of blackballing probably ever known, which took place some years ago at a ladies' club, where one candidate received three more black balls than the number of members present—a case of excessive zeal indeed!

The practical joker is naturally not unknown in the most solemn of clubs, and "some irrepressible jokers have paid for their love of fun by having to resign their membership." One of them, whose escapades were notorious in London twenty years ago, sitting half asleep in a certain bohemian club, became annoyed at a very red headed waiter who kept buzzing about his chair. The sight of the fiery locks was eventually too much for this wild spirit, and, darting up and seizing the man, he emptied a bottle of black ink over his head before he could escape. The result, of course, was expulsion from the club, besides which very substantial compensation was rightly paid to the waiter."
